Running to Light

the river and the snow
are taken by their shadows

becoming darkness
with a sound

searching light:
finding the moon
it thrashes it to ribbons.

Rewound at an eddy then revolving whole and cold.